Method of selection: Managers and Coaches will create a list of eligible players. Players will then be assessed if needed to create a final roster of 11 players plus alternates. All Star Managers will contact the players to inform them that they have been chosen for tournament play.

2. Draft Method for Junior and Senior Division

3. Draft Method for Major Division

When all teams are set, each team will be given a letter of designation. That letter will designate that coach's team. If the coach assumes a team that doesn't include his child, his child and the next team in the order of the draft will swap players. All players will be redrafted each year. The serpentine method of draft will be used.

4. Draft Method for Minor Player Pitch Division

All players will be redrafted each year. All minor league managers along with the player agents will assemble the teams ensuring that the talent and abilities are evenly dispersed throughout the league. When all teams are set, each team will be given a letter of designation. That letter will designate that coach's team. If the coach assumes a team that doesn't include his child, his child and the next team in the order of the draft will swap players. The serpentine method of draft will be used.

5. Moving a Player from Minor Division to Major Division

It is the responsibility of the Player Agent, prior to the season starting to approach and encourage the chosen player to move up (see Regulation VIII), when a vacancy occurs in the Major

No player will be called up from the Minor Division to the Major Division in the last two weeks of the regular season.

6. Major League Division Championship

In the Major Division, the season will be split into two halves, with the first half champion playing the second half champion at the end of the season. The champion must be decided at least 7 days before the TOCs begin. If the same team wins both halves, it will be declared champion. The first and second half champions will be determined based on the overall win / loss record in that half.
